PRESS RELEASE FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

APEX - Raffles' Triumphant Pursuit of Pinnacle

Singapore, 27 June 2014 – A night that witnessed the convocation of 407 Raffles graduates, APEX Graduation event set a new culmination for Raffles College of Higher Education. It celebrated the biggest graduating cohort ever with a new wave in showcasing students' works digitally, and an event collaboration with Design Business Chamber Singapore (DBCS) - Designer's Nite.

APEX - the theme for this graduation, signifies and celebrates our graduates' triumphant pursuit of pinnacle. In conjunction with APEX Graduation, Designer's Nite was a networking event in collaboration with DBCS held on 16 June at Raffles Education Square. It marked the launch of six month long APEX Graduation Exhibition, showcased a well-orchestrated mini fashion show and bridged students with industry partners. Guests who visited the exhibition experienced a multi-sensory digital experience of our graduates' works through the RafflesSG application using Samsung tablets.

Gracing the Designer's Nite with his opening speech, President of DBCS, Mr Tai Lee Siang commented, "Given rising global competition, it is imperative that Singapore leverages on design and innovation as key differentiator to keep ahead. We believe that our design graduates will strengthen our efforts to enhance Singapore as a Design Capital and Hub."

On 18 June 2014 at Fairmont Singapore, APEX Graduation received overwhelming praises from our graduates' families, key industry partners, and numerous distinguished guests. Dr Loretta Chen, Creative and Business Development Director of VMSSD remarked, "The quality, standard, attitude, sense of professionalism and creativity of the students are amazing. I'm very proud of the college, faculty and students, and I will continue to support Raffles."

During the night of APEX Graduation Fashion Show, 21 graduating Raffles Fashion Designers were selected to showcase their 8-pieces collections that were of professional standards and bursting with creativity. The diversity in the students' backgrounds recreated dynamic elements of boldness, modernity, feminism, vibrancy, elegance and sophistication into their individual styles that were incorporated in their collections.

"What really sets them apart when they enter the industry is their ability to brand themselves, market themselves and present themselves. Don't ever stop believing in yourself. Always believe in yourself. If you can think it, you can dream it, and you can certainly achieve it," Dr. Loretta Chen shared.

External examiner, Profession Maureen Wayman commented, "Most of the collections showcased during the fashion show could go straight into the stores, ready for sale. Some had outstanding standard of production whereas others cleverly put textiles together, manipulating embellishing textiles in a way that is unique to the world. Something stupendous was that some of the womenswear collections, particularly menswear collections had a really European feel to them. It is not designed for Asia, not designed for part of the world but is designed for everybody. That is global design, an incredible achievement."

The event was wrapped up with Dr. Loretta Chen, Creative and Business Development Director of VMSD and Giuseppe (Joe) Spinelli, Principal of Raffles College of Higher Education presenting certificates to the 2 recipients of VMSD Young Talents Scholarship Award, sponsored by VMSD.

Top student of Advanced Diploma in Interior Design, Viona Giovanni Felisiana said, "It was totally unexpected and I am really grateful to emerge as the top student among so many other good students. Raffles has helped me develop my skills in the working environment and applying the relevant skills in the industry. My lecturers were helpful and friendly and I am thankful to be part of Raffles family."
